

Calling Marketing Interns for summer/fall/spring semesters

Want to work for an edgy, future-forward, hip, smart city magazine? Raleigh Magazine may have a spot for you.

Our Summer/Fall/Spring internships are in-house, 10 hours per week minimum (set schedule).

The internships are unpaid, but we are more than willing to sign off on course credit as applicable.

Marketing/Advertising candidates will work directly with the account executives and publisher, and can expect to:

- Learn the ins and outs of a magazine from slate to press
- Learn how the marketing/advertising/business side of a publication works
- Real opportunities to gain experience in direct sales
- Gain potential writing credits for web/print as applicable
- Build skills in SEO, Wordpress, newsletters
- Gain social media experience
- Work with a high-energy, tight-knit positive team with real opportunities to contribute

Interested candidates should email the following to Gina Stephens, Publisher (gina@raleighmag.com)
